Larger Quarters Needed To Keep Pace With Growth

space to meet the growth of the future.

Room for Twenty-four Presses

The new building will have room for twenty-four units of presses, which insures adequate service to the public, no matter how great the circulation becomes. It is the intention to make this pressroom the finest in the world.

To expedite the handling of news matter the editorial and composing rooms will occupy the same floor. This arrangement means a great saving in time from the moment the story comes into the office until it is ticked off in type by one of the linotype machines.

The news matter will pass steadily and quickly through the city editor's desk, the copy readers' desk and on to the compositors, who will set it into type. This done it will be turned over to the stereotypers, also to be located on the same floor, who will speedily make the plates and send them to the pressroom.

Great Darkrooms and Studios

Special care is to be given the art and photographic departments. Great darkrooms and studios are provided for in the plans, and these will be equipped with the latest inventions and developments in both fields.

Here, again, The GRAPHIC, known now as the "Fastest Growing Newspaper in the World," will be able to give better service to its readers in the way of improved pictures.

The delivery room will be modern in every detail and will be so arranged that not the slightest delay will be encountered in getting out the various editions as they are clicked off the presses. The new, big, motor-driven trucks will carry their cargoes to the tubes under the Hudson to New Jersey, to the Bronx and Brooklyn, in fact, to every nook and corner of the metropolitan district. A special fleet will be employed to get the papers to railroad terminals for consumption of those far removed from the city.

Quarters for Syndicate

Provided in the general layout of the new plant are suitable quarters for The GRAPHIC Syndicate, Inc., which, like the paper, is growing by leaps and bounds.

During the past few weeks the demands of outside editors for GRAPHIC features have become so general that the present building is totally inadequate. It is planned, when in the new quarters, to expand the syndicate to such an extent that it will acquire first rank in the newspaper world, already astounded by the unparalleled gains of The GRAPHIC.

In its two years of existence The GRAPHIC has outdistanced all rivals in the afternoon field except one. This is a record for achievement which cannot be matched in the history of newspaper making. It proves conclusively that The GRAPHIC knows what the people want—and gives it to them.

Crime Orgy Bum Rodgers's Revenge

mination to quit the underworld. I had nothing before me but defeat and death. I have death before me now, but I'm willing to gamble. I've got a feeling that I will have the sympathy of society when it learns that I am the man who tried to put Bum Rodgers where he belongs: under the sod. He belongs under the sod.

That title Bum doesn't mean that he's a bum mentally. No—he's not a bum mentally. He never had much chance to educate himself when he was a kid, but he has done plenty of reading and plenty of thinking in and out of prisons. He's nobody's fool, as you will presently see, but if there was ever such a person on earth as a habitual criminal it is Bum Rodgers. A lot of people have gone the limit for him, did everything they could to get him on the right road, and he has thrown every one of them down good and hard.

He's a born actor. If you don't believe this, look up his prison record. How many times has he been in and out of prison? How did he manage to get out when he got in? What's the answer? Nothing more than this:—

He was always able to make somebody believe that he was not the fellow that the police said he was.

Police Warnings Ignored

If the people paid more attention to what the police said about criminals there wouldn't be so many criminals talking their way out of prisons. Bum was a natural born actor. He had people "rooting" for him while he was laughing at them. He obtained sympathy and consideration, while men, first offenders, who were more deserving, were ignored.

In some ways he's like Chapman, while in many other ways he isn't. He is more daring than Chapman. Chapman planned crimes carefully and figured on eventualities, while Bum never considers eventualities and does very little planning. The failure of the Hadley Field air mail truck robbery illustrates what I mean.

"Take 'em by storm, give 'em hell, terrorize 'em," is his creed.

Cut Him Down!

If Chapman had staged that attempt it would have been successful. Bum has ambitions to do more spectacular things than Chapman and he will do them if he isn't cut down very soon.

HE IS PLANNING ASTOUNDING CRIMES—CRIMES, I REPEAT, THAT NO UNDERWORLD LEADER EVER THOUGHT OF.

Two men have been marked for death, Shean and Loerber. Shean is safe for the present. They have been trying to "get" Loerber for the past year, and on several occasions they were within an ace of "getting" him. Loerber, unconsciously, has had several miraculous escapes from death. I will tell you about them later on in my story. If the people of Hartford had known what was planned to rescue Chapman they would have had the United States army around the Wethersfield Prison, and if a certain thing hadn't occurred, concerning which I will write, Chapman would have been rescued.

ENOUGH NITROGLYCERIN TO DESTROY A GOOD-SIZED CITY WAS PLANTED WITHIN A MILE OF THE WETHERSFIELD PRISON. Bum has sworn that he will make those "Connecticut yaps pay for killing his great god, Chapman."

He has sworn that he will make everybody pay who helped to send Chapman to the gallows for a crime that he didn't commit. He's a dope-crazed demon, who belongs under the sod. He believes that society made him a criminal, and he has an intense hatred for everything within the social scheme. He detests judges, detect ves, cops, law and order, and he will fight like a hungry rat if he is cornered. My advice to any officer who corners him is shoot to kill. In my next chapter I will tell you how the band was organized to avenge Chapman's death. If I live long enough, I will tell you things about this underworld maniac that will leave you wide-eyed with wonder.

Cop Hunts Bride In Jersey Villa

Wandling is still devoted to his wife, whom he considers "an innocent victim of an older woman."

Wandling said the woman who's the cause of his shattered romance is quite masculine in her ways, wears tailored suits, stiff mannish collars and neckties, and walks with a heavy tread.

"I've had so much experience handling all types of women as a policeman," said Wandling bitterly, "that I should have recognized her kind as soon as she appeared and taken every precaution to shield my wife against her. But one is always blind in matters that affect those most dear to him, and I certainly was sightless in this case. But if I can only find my wife and get her back home again, everything, I believe, would turn out all right."

If the supposed Roberts, or O'Connor—neither of which, incidentally, is the money-angel's real name—is located, Superintendent Ober of an apartment house at 233 77th St. will serve a summons on him in an effort to collect about $2,500 back rent. The woman, blamed by Wandling for luring his wife away, backed up a truck in front of the 77th Street address last August and cleared all the furniture out of an apartment on which Roberts had taken a two-year lease, Ober said. The lease was supposed to run until next October, but the woman paid no heed to the superintendent's protests, he charged.

(Will the police Adonis find his bride and win her back to his home? The GRAPHIC alone has the inside on this love tangle, and tomorrow will publish further developments in this strange case.)
